

The opportunity: Project volunteer

We are seeking a motivated individual who would like to volunteer on a national project that seeks to conserve native amphibians affected by habitat fragmentation.

The Toads on Roads Project, is a long standing Froglife project which aims to register all of the eligible amphibian migration routes in the UK. And assist local volunteers find these areas to help save amphibians from being killed during the annual spring migration.

We are looking for a Peterborough based volunteer who can spare 1-2 days per week, to dive into this project. Assist the Public Engagement Officer with data entry into a new database, and registering new sites as and when they come in.

Work will also involve updating toad patrollers, with annual updates, as well as updating the Public engagement officer for communication via social media and reports.

This is vital project work which will help this project continue to support volunteers nationally.

Skills that will help with the role:

- Attention to detail.
- Basic computer skills (training on specific programmes will be provided)
- Ability to work on your own
- Time management skills.
